Background

Real bargains, cool vintage furniture, tableware, clothing, books, and sports equipment: All this and much more is offered by the "48er-Tandler", the second-hand market of MA 48: Ecological. Practical. Viennese. The market provides a contemporary opportunity to purchase high-quality, functional second-hand goods at reasonable prices. The 48er-Tandler is good for the environment and of course also good for your wallet. By dropping off old items, that are still good to use, at one of the 13 separate collection centers or your purchase at the 48er-Tandler, you support social projects such as the TierQuarTier Wien.

Program Details

The 48er-Tandler offers unique items with a history. The colorful assortment comes from drop-offs at Vienna's separate collection centers, where intact items are collected separately in the so-called "Tandler Box". Every year, around 130.000 still usable items are collected and sold for re-use. In addition, unclaimed items from the lost-and-found service and items no longer needed by various municipal departments of the City of Vienna can also be sold at one of the municipal re-use shops in order to extend their lifespan. During the tour, you will have a look around the sorting plant and stroll through the market itself. Before the tour, you will have the possibility to attend a presentation on municipal solid waste management in Vienna, where you have the possibility to ask.
